

Declaration of Commitment

We are

A global network of individuals and institutions on a learning journey, working collaboratively at all scales as agents of change to steer towards the Global Goals.

United by a common goal: "To support a rapid transition to resilient development paths in all economies and regions, to build a better future for people everywhere, leaving no one behind".

We share a vision

"Resilient communities able to withstand the emerging global challenges and provide a better future for generations to come. A future built on equal opportunity, justice, dignity and shared prosperity for all."

We champion

New ways of thinking and cocreating driven by the power of collaboration and the networked strengths of an outstanding group of individuals and organisations, working towards a common goal: the rapid global transition to resilient development paths by 2030 in all regions of the world.

We deliver for

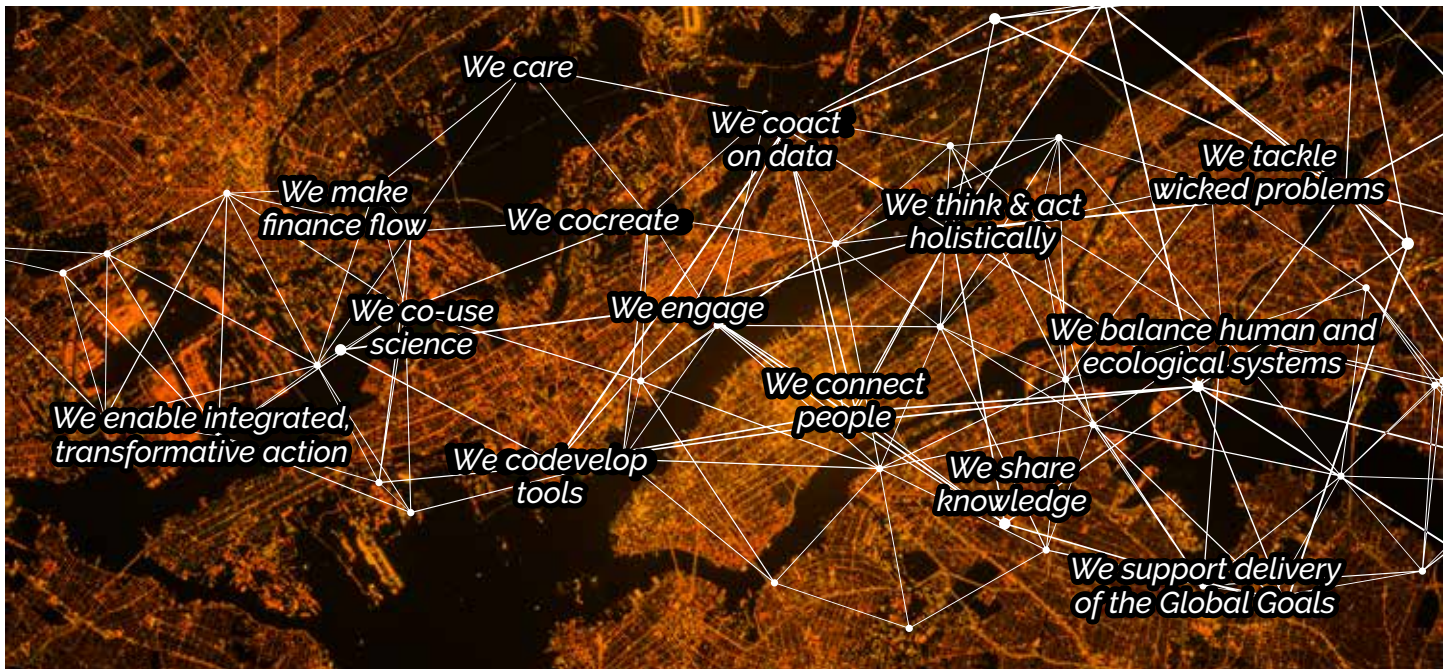

Nations, city regions, young people, communities, ecosystems, businesses, insurers and investors.

We engage and empower people

- Engaging communities and people of all ages to come together to accelerate equitable transformative change in city regions.
- Leveraging and cultivating global partnerships and emerging technologies to cocreate human and ecological wellbeing now and in the future.
- Inspiring young people, investors, mayors, businesses, scientists, and leaders in communities everywhere, indeed citizens of the world, to better understand and face the future with confidence and hope.

We enable and sustain transformative change

- Planning and acting now at city region and community scale for success over the long term at planetary scale.
- Codesigning tools and connecting science and technology research with local and indigenous knowledge and wisdom.
- Engaging, creating and investing in flourishing and fulfilling lives and ecological systems, for both current and future generations, in communities and city regions globally.
- Delivering world-leading, innovative integrated systems modelling of social and natural systems and their interlinkages, at all scales from earth systems to local city-region systems; as well as the economics of human wellbeing and the health of ecological systems.
- Facilitating a rapid scale up to 10,000 city regions by 2030. Following implementation of the Resilience Brokers Programme in 200 city regions by 2022, we will release the modelling platform open source to provide access to everyone, everywhere.

In September 2017, at Rockefeller's Bellagio Centre in Italy, key representatives of the Resilience Brokers Programme partner organisations and key stakeholders convened to finalise the detail of the delivery plan for the Resilience Brokers Programme.

At this event, all participants, as individuals as well as as representatives of their organisations, cocreated and agreed to this Declaration of Commitment. The Resilience Brokers Declaration of Commitment is based on the consensual agreement that:

- Urgent action is needed to ensure a rapid transition to resilient development paths to ensure all city regions in the world are able to withstand the emerging global challenges
- The necessary transformational change can only be achieved through new ways of thinking and collaborating that will lead to radical breakthroughs in paradigms, beliefs and behavior.
- We commit to work together collaboratively to provide a better future for generations to come. A future built on equal opportunity and shared prosperity for all.
